The Connecticut State Innovation Model (SIM) will transform the CT health care system. Fueled by a 4-year, $45 million grant from the Center for Medicare & Medicaid Innovation, scores of healthcare providers, government agencies, employers, consumers, and payers are working together to establish a whole-person centered healthcare system that:

- Improves community health and eliminates health inequities
- Ensures superior access, quality and care experience
- Empowers individuals to actively participate in their health and health care
- Improves affordability by reducing healthcare costs
